

The True Professional

© Margaret Wheatley

This is a “found poem”—all phrases are taken from, or found, in Parker Palmer’s book The Active Life. I then played with them and extended them beyond Parker’s original prose. I wrote this in tribute to Parker Palmer for the profound influence he’s had on my work.

“The true professional is a person whose action points beyond his or herself to that underlying reality, that hidden wholeness, on which we all can rely.”

Parker Palmer

Illusion

Too much of our action is really reaction. Such doing does not flow from free and independent hearts but depends on external provocation.

Such doing does not flow it depends on external provocation.

It does not come from our sense of who we are and what we want to do, but from our anxious reading of how others define us

our anxious reading of how others define us
our anxious reading of how others define us and of what the world demands.

When we react in this way we do not act humanly.

The true professional is one
who does not obscure grace with illusions of technical prowess,
the true professional is one
who strips away all illusions to reveal a reliable truth

a reliable truth in which
the human heart can rest.

Can rest.

Unveil the illusions unveil the illusions that masquerade
the illusions that masquerade as reality and reveal the reality
behind the masks.

Catch the magician
deceiving us
get a glimpse
a glimpse of the truth behind the trick.

A glimpse.

Contemplation happens anytime we get a glimpse of the truth.

Action

Action, like a sacrament, is the visible form of an invisible spirit an outward manifestation of an inward power.

An expressive act is not to achieve a goal outside myself but to express a conviction a leading, a truth that is within me.

An expressive act is one taken because if I did not if I did not
if I did not take it I would be denying my own insight, gift, nature.

Action, like a sacrament, is the visible form of an invisible spirit an outward manifestation of an inward power. But as we act, we not only express what is in us and help give shape to the world.

We also receive what is outside us and we reshape
our inner selves.

When we act, the world acts back.

The world acts back
and we and the world, we and the world are co-created.

Right action is a process of birthing that cannot be forced but only followed.

Surrender

When God's love for the world pierces our armor of fear it is an awesome experience of calling and accountability.
When God's love pierces our armor of fear it is awesome
it is awesome to be pierced by God to be called to accountability to be called by God's love for the world.

The true professional is one
who does not obscure grace
with illusions of technical prowess,
the true professional is one
who strips away all illusions to reveal

a reliable truth in which
the human heart can rest.

Reveal a reliable truth.

Let our human hearts rest.

Margaret Wheatley is a well-respected writer, speaker, and teacher for how we can accomplish our work, sustain our relationships, and willingly step forward to serve in this troubling time. She has written five books: Perseverance (2010); Leadership and the New Science (18 languages and third edition); Turning to One Another: Simple Conversations to Restore Hope to the Future (7 languages and second edition); A Simpler Way (with Myron Rogers); and Finding Our Way: Leadership for an Uncertain Time (3 languages). An organizational consultant since 1973, a global citizen since her youth, and a professor in two graduate business programs, she has been awarded several honorary degrees and distinctions. You may read her complete bio at <http://margaretwheatley.com/bio.html>, and may download any of her many articles (free) at <http://margaretwheatley.com/writing.html>.