Raven teach me to ride the winds of change perch where the wind comes at you full force let it blow you apart till your feathers fly off and you look like hell

then abandon yourself

the wind is not your enemy nothing in life is

go where wind takes you higher

lower

backward

the wind to carry you forward will find you when you are ready

when you can bear it